What About My Car

Can The Insurance Adjuster 'Make' Me Select An Auto Collision Repair Shop From Their "Approved" Shops?

NO! It is not legal for an insurance company to require that you take your business to any particular auto collision repair facility. Although they can "recommend" some auto body shops, the insurance adjusters CANNOT REQUIRE you to use a specific repair facility or to select from a list of their "preferred" shops.

You, the consumer, have the right to use any licensed repair facility that you choose. You cannot be forced to take your vehicle to any particular auto collision repair facility.

Why NOT Take My Car To The 'At-Fault' Driver's insurance Company Repair Shop?

There are allegations that these approved or direct-repair body shops get on the insurance company's list by keeping their costs low, and hence the company will be paying less to repair your vehicle when you use one of those shops.

Why Choose AUTO ACCIDENT INJURY CARE Preferred Body Shops For My Repairs?

First and foremost, our primary objective is to ensure your health is back to the level, if not better, where it was before the accident. We are also concerned about your well being including your property damage. Simply put, we are on your side in every way regarding your accident.

Contact our office today and ask about your diminished value that you are entitled to by state law. The 'at-fault' insurance company is required to pay you this amount only if you ask for it. Here is the problem, unless you are in this industry everyday, most people do not know to ask for it, therefore, insurance companies rarely have to pay it.

Feel free to contact our staff @ (855) CALL-HELP / (855) 255-5435 to discuss your options.
